

March 23, 2010

Half priced wines at Valentino on Mondays

March 23, 9:48 AM ▪ Houston Cheap Eats Examiner ▪ Mike Riccetti

These bottles are probably pretty good....
valentinorestaurantgroup.com

I just received this press release concerning another, and this time wallet-friendly reason to visit Valentino:

Valentino Houston, which boasts an incredible wine list, is introducing a half-price price wine program every Monday through April 30, 2010, announced Valentino General Manager, Patrick Dorrian. “We have such an incredible wine list—one of the best in the city—so we are hoping that this special offer will give Houstonians the chance to try out some new vintages they might not otherwise try.” Patrons can sample some of the restaurant’s incredible wines during this special wine offer, all for half-price.

The Valentino Restaurant Group under owner, Piero Selvaggio, is the recipient of two Wine Spectator [Grand] awards. Selvaggio, who hopes to one day have a third award at Valentino Houston, has amassed one of the world’s best wine collections. Valentino Houston’s vast wine list includes an extensive variety of Italian and California small producers—hard to get little gems—and a special selection of verticals and rare vintages.

The wine offer is valid...on select bottles in Valentino, the fine dining restaurant. Restaurant patrons can use the West Loop entrance or the main Hotel Derek entrance. Complimentary valet parking is provided when dining at the Vin Bar and Valentino Houston.

Valentino

Hotel Derek

2525 West Loop South (at Westheimer), 77027, (713) 850-9200

www.valentinorestaurantgroup.com